STATE TOURNEY STARTS TONIGHT

Leading Basketball Teams Begin Elimination Contest for Championship.

Everything is in readiness for the openat the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tonight. The first ound, four games, will be pulled off tonight. At 6:30 p. m. the Salt school will meet; at 7:30. L. D. S. first and Y. M. C. A. second; at 8:30, Y. M. C. A. first and University of Utah, and at 9:30, Aggles and L. D. S. second. Those interested in the meet are very much pleased at the action of some of the secondary teams in entering the tournament. These teams apparently have no chance to win, but they desire to show their good will and their willingness to support Utah athletics by entering and taking a defeat with no compensation but experience

The Granite High school and Salt Lake High school have shown qualities of real sportsmanship throughout the entire basketball season and are to be congratulat ed on doing their part to make this meet

Maddock's men at the university are also anxious to do their part, and although they have had no representative team this year, will get together a strong combination of the best men of the vari-

The L. D. S. U. this year possesses the strongest team that has represented the institution for some time. Hard luck has pursued them and what games they have lost have been lost by close scores. They are playing better than ever now and will lost have been lost by close scores. They are playing better than ever now and will be prominent contenders for first place.

The Y. M. C. A. team is in the best condition and is playing better ball than it has any time during the year, and its supporters are quite sure that it will finish the tournament without a defeat.

Brooklyn School Boy Said to Be a Phenom at Quarter of a Mile.

New York, March 5 .- Athletic trainers, ncluding Ernie Hjerberg of the Irish-American Athletic club, believe they have found a quarter-mile runner, who will one day beat the world's record, in Arthur H. Cozzens, a Brooklyn schoolboy. Cozzens has done some great running, particularly in relay races, for his school, the Brooklyn Manual High school, and has never yet falled to defeat his rivals at his ing of the state basketball tournament distance. Largely due to his speed, the at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tonight, school holds numbers of inter-scholastic records. combination of the best men of the various teams that they have been playing this season. There are some excellent players at the university, and it is expected that the team Maddock sends down will be exceptionally strong.

The entire net proceeds of this tournament are to be turned over to the school committee for the furtherance of the big "all western track meet," May 30. In view of this fact, it is expected that large crowds will attend the games.

The fight for first place will probably be between the Y. M. C. A., the L. D. S. U. and the Aggies. The Aggies have been highly praised for the excellent spirit they have shown all year and the gameness with which they have taken their

SAYS 'TIS GOOD RIDDANCE. Chief of Police Believes Mahoney Escape Beneficial.

Concerning J. C. Mahoney, who escaped from the city jail on Tuesday afternoon, Chief of Police Pitt said: "I saw him as he started away and followed a short way, just to start him on the run. It is a good thing for the city to have such men get out of If he had finished his sentence he would have hung around and committed other petty thefts. That is in his line. As it is, we will probably never see him again."

LITTLE BEES WISE.

Scientist Says They Can Judge Time of Day Without Trouble. (Exchange.)

The latest observer of the bees credits them with ability to judge the time of day. He is Augustus Force, a Frenchman, and his studies were involuntary at the outset. He lives in a villa not far from Paris and in summer it is the habit of his family to take their meals outdoors on a terrace. At 7 o'clock in the morning the table was habitually set for the light French breakfast. A great dish of preserved fruit was always a feature of this meal. At noon came the "grand dejeuner," or luncheon, when there was no fruit. At 4 o'clock something like the English tea was served and then remaining on the table for half to three-quarters of an hour. The bees had their colony about a hundred yards from the terrace, but until last June they never gave the slightest trouble. Then the cook put a basin of cherries preserved in syrup, to cool in a window near the table There were some flowers in the window. A bee visiting these discovered the cherries and soon came back with the whole swarm to enjoy them. When they came back later and found the cherries gone they went foraging and presently discovered the preserves on the breakfast table. "We are lost," said the proprietor, "we will have to give up eating here." At first the bees buzzed over the terrace all day from dawn to dusk. Then they began to disappear in the middle of the day. They made early breakfast and afternoon tea impossible, but they were totally absent at the luncheon hour. About the middle of July the family gave up using the terrace for the bee infested meals, but by way of experiment the table was set one morning as usual. Promptly at a. m. the bees began to arrive, and at 10 o'clock, when the table was cleared as usual, they ceased coming. Not a The luncheon was eaten without the
